

Declaration for the Peaceful Dissolution of Canada and the Formation of Kanatawi

Provisional Government of Kanatawi

March 13, 2025

We, the People of Kanatawi, declare the peaceful dissolution of Canada and the formation of a just, equitable, and sustainable nation.

Preamble

We, the people of this land, united in our commitment to justice, reconciliation, and environmental stewardship, hereby declare the peaceful dissolution of Canada and the establishment of a new sovereign nation, Kanatawi.

Recognizing the historical injustices of colonialism, systemic racism, environmental exploitation, and the denial of Indigenous sovereignty, we commit to building a nation grounded in:

- Indigenous sovereignty and self-governance
- Anti-discrimination and social justice
- Environmental stewardship and sustainable development
- Economic fairness and equitable resource distribution
- Participatory democracy and cooperative federalism

This declaration marks a new beginning for all peoples on this land, united in dignity, peace, and respect for future generations.

Article I: Legal Dissolution of Canada

1. Canada, as constituted by the British North America Act (1867) and the Constitution Act (1982), is hereby peacefully dissolved.
2. All legal and political authority formerly held by the federal government of Canada is transferred to the Provisional Government of Kanatawi.
3. All ties to the British monarchy are hereby severed, and Kanatawi is established as an independent republic governed by democratic principles.

Article II: Foundational Principles of Kanatawi

1. Kanatawi is founded on the principles of anti-discrimination, Indigenous sovereignty, environmental protection, and social equity.
2. The reinstatement of Section 13 of the former Canadian Human Rights Act shall prohibit hate speech and violence against any group.
3. Comprehensive anti-discrimination laws will be enshrined in the Kanatawi Constitution to protect against racism, sexism, ableism, and all forms of prejudice.

Article III: Reconciliation and Indigenous Sovereignty

1. All former Crown lands are hereby returned to Indigenous nations, with full recognition of their historical sovereignty.
2. Indigenous nations shall have the right to self-governance over their territories, resources, and cultural heritage.
3. Indigenous representation will be central to national governance and decision-making processes.

Article IV: Environmental Stewardship and Sustainable Development

1. Kanatawi commits to transitioning to renewable energy and ending reliance on fossil fuels.
2. Strict environmental regulations will protect natural ecosystems, water sources, and wildlife.
3. Economic development will prioritize ecological balance and community-based solutions.

Article V: Economic Justice and Fair Governance

1. Exploitative financial practices such as predatory lending, usury, and monopolistic control over resources are prohibited.
2. Economic policies will promote equitable distribution of wealth, cooperative enterprises, and community empowerment.
3. Basic income programs and social welfare systems will be established to eliminate poverty and homelessness.

Article VI: Provincial and Regional Governance

1. Existing provinces will retain their regional identities and governance structures while aligning with Kanatawi's constitutional principles.
2. A cooperative federalist model will foster collaboration between the national and regional governments.
3. Regional governance must adhere to anti-discrimination, environmental protection, and human rights standards.

Article VII: Establishment of the Provisional Government and Constitutional Assembly

1. A Provisional Government composed of Indigenous leaders, elected representatives, and civil society advocates shall oversee the transition.
2. A Constitutional Assembly will be convened to draft Kanatawi's Constitution, reflecting the diverse voices and values of the people.
3. The Constitution will enshrine the rights of all citizens and protect future generations from systemic exploitation and ecological harm.

Conclusion

We, the people of Kanatawi, pledge to build a nation rooted in justice, reconciliation, and ecological harmony. The peaceful dissolution of Canada and the establishment of Kanatawi is a declaration of hope, responsibility, and a commitment to equality for all.

Signed:
Provisional Government of Kanatawi
Indigenous Leaders
Community Representatives
Citizens of Kanatawi
