

OFFICIAL FORMAL DECLARATION

NOMENCLATURE, ONOMASTIC ORIGIN & PHONETIC GUIDANCE

SUBJECT IDENTIFICATION

Marie-Soleil Seshat Landry

TO ALL RELEVANT PARTIES, CORRESPONDENTS, AND INSTITUTIONS: Notice is hereby formally delivered concerning the authentic spoken pronunciation, cultural identity, and linguistic provenance of the middle name Seshat within the full legal and personal name of Marie-Soleil Seshat Landry.

WRITTEN NAME

Seshat

OFFICIAL PHONETIC

Si-Cha

TERMINAL CONSONANT

Silent "T"

ARTICLE I — PHONETIC RULES & VOCALIZATION

The middle name Seshat is vocalized strictly in accordance with Acadian French phonetic conventions. While English or standardized academic usage often employs a hard terminal sound (e.g., "Sesh-at"), the correct and intended vocalization for this individual drops the trailing consonant completely:

- Phonetic Representation: Pronounced explicitly as "Si-Cha" (IPA: /si.ʃa/ or /se.ʃa/).
- Initial Syllable: Rendered with a soft "Si-" or "Sé-" sound.
- Terminal Syllable: Utilizes a soft French "ch" sound, dropping the final "T" entirely to end cleanly on an open vowel.
- Full Name Flow: Reads continuously as Marie-Soleil "Si-Cha" Landry.

ARTICLE II — ETYMOLOGICAL ROOTS & LINEAGE

Ancient Egyptian Provenance

Originates from the ancient Egyptian deity Seshat (𓎗𓏏𓎣), revered as the goddess of wisdom, writing, measurement, history, and architecture.

Translating hieroglyphically as "the female scribe," the ancient root carried a feminine determinative suffix (ꜥ).

Acadian French Integration

As held by Marie-Soleil Seshat Landry, the name is fully integrated into Maritime Acadian French heritage.

In late Coptic transitions and Acadian French phonology, the feminine terminal "T" is naturally muted, resulting in the soft vocalization Si-Cha.

ARTICLE III — FULL NAME BREAKDOWN

- Marie-Soleil: Traditional Acadian compound given name.
- Seshat: Middle name bridging ancient scribal symbolism with soft Acadian French vocalization (Si-Cha).
- Landry: Foundational Acadian patronymic surname with deep historic roots across Maritime Canada.

