

International Declaration of the Dissolution of the British Crown

Preamble

We, the undersigned representatives of Indigenous Nations, human rights advocates, and sovereign entities, hereby declare the British Crown as an illegal, fraudulent, and obsolete institution whose claims of sovereignty are nullified under international law. The Crown's ongoing existence perpetuates colonialism, systemic genocide, and the illegal occupation of Indigenous lands worldwide.

Legal Basis for Dissolution

1. Violation of the UN Charter (1945): - Article 1 mandates the self-determination of peoples and the end of colonial domination. - The Crown's persistent claims over Indigenous territories directly contravene this principle.

2. Breach of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP, 2007): - Articles 3, 26, and 28 affirm the right of Indigenous Peoples to sovereignty over their lands, territories, and resources. - The Crown's assertion of Crown Land and dominion status violates these foundational rights.

3. Genocide Convention (1948): - The Crown's historical and ongoing policies—such as forced assimilation, land dispossession, and systemic marginalization—constitute genocide under Articles 2(a)-(e).

4. Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties (1969): - Treaties imposed under duress, fraud, or lacking free, prior, and informed consent are invalid. - Crown treaties with Indigenous Nations fail these legitimacy tests.

5. Legal Precedents: - International Court of Justice Advisory Opinion on the Chagos Archipelago (2019) affirmed the illegality of colonial occupation without Indigenous consent. - The Delgamuukw (1997) and Tsilhqot'in (2014) cases in Canada affirm Indigenous land title that supersedes Crown claims.

Declaration

1. The institution of the British Crown is hereby declared illegal, illegitimate, and dissolved in the context of international law.
 2. All claims of sovereignty, dominion, or governance derived from Crown authority are null and void.
 3. All lands designated as Crown Land are recognized as illegally occupied and subject to immediate restitution to Indigenous Nations.
 4. The British Crown's symbols, titles, and institutional frameworks are to be abolished in all jurisdictions where Indigenous sovereignty has been asserted.

International Demands

1. The United Nations General Assembly shall pass a resolution acknowledging the dissolution of the British Crown's colonial claims.
 2. Member states shall enforce sanctions against any entity perpetuating Crown-based legal fictions of land ownership or governance.
 3. Indigenous Nations shall be admitted as full member states of the United Nations, free from Crown-imposed jurisdiction.
 4. An International Tribunal for Crown Colonial Crimes shall be established to prosecute historical and ongoing human rights violations perpetrated under Crown authority.

Conclusion

The British Crown is a colonial relic whose continued existence violates international law, human dignity, and the sovereign rights of Indigenous Peoples. This declaration signals the legal and moral imperative to dismantle Crown authority and restore Indigenous self-determination globally.
