

Draft: Dissolution of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP)

As part of the peaceful dissolution of Canada and the formation of the new nation of Kanatawi

Preamble

Recognizing the historic and ongoing role of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) in enforcing colonial policies, suppressing Indigenous sovereignty, and perpetuating systemic discrimination, we, the people of Kanatawi, hereby dissolve the RCMP. In its place, we commit to building community-based systems of safety, justice, and conflict resolution that reflect the values of reconciliation, self-determination, accountability, and care.

1 Legal Dissolution

1. Termination of Authority

The RCMP, as an institution created by and for the colonial government of Canada, shall be formally disbanded and its operations permanently ceased throughout the territory of Kanatawi.

2. Revocation of Mandate

All mandates, contracts, and authorities previously granted to the RCMP under Canadian federal law are nullified within the jurisdiction of Kanatawi.

3. Decommissioning of Infrastructure

RCMP facilities, equipment, and administrative assets shall be decommissioned and transferred to local community governance bodies for peaceful repurposing or dismantlement.

2 Accountability and Reconciliation

1. Truth and Accountability Commission

A national commission shall be established to:

- Document abuses committed by the RCMP, especially those targeting Indigenous peoples, Black communities, women, 2SLGBTQ+ persons, and protest movements.
- Offer a platform for survivors to testify and seek restorative justice.
- Recommend legal reforms, reparations, and memorialization.

2. Institutional Audits and Public Records

All internal records of the RCMP pertaining to surveillance, harassment, and use of force must be released to the public unless they pose a legitimate and specific threat to safety.

3 Transition to Community-Led Public Safety

1. Establishment of Community Peace Councils

Localized, culturally appropriate, and democratically governed Peace Councils shall be established to address harm, ensure public safety, and support conflict resolution.

2. Indigenous Justice Systems

Indigenous nations shall have full jurisdiction to exercise and revitalize their own justice systems and security services on their lands, supported but not interfered with by national structures.

3. Demilitarization

Kanatawi shall prohibit the militarization of public safety institutions. Armed enforcement shall be limited to specific, democratically sanctioned roles with strict oversight.

4 Employment Transition and Retraining

1. Support for Former RCMP Employees

Individuals formerly employed by the RCMP who wish to contribute to the new system of justice in Kanatawi may apply for retraining and community accountability programs, provided they have no record of abuse or human rights violations.

2. Psychosocial Support

Counseling, mediation, and healing services will be offered to affected communities and former employees during the transition period.

Conclusion

The dissolution of the RCMP is a step toward ending the legacy of colonial violence and building a new system rooted in justice, healing, and community sovereignty. In Kanatawi, public safety is a collective responsibility, built on trust, dignity, and mutual care—not coercion and surveillance.

Signed,
