

---

FINAL OSINT REPORT: Ted Nugent's Public Statements Regarding Barack Obama

(Service 1: SpyForMe OSINT Report Generator)

| Parameter       | Detail                                                                                                                          | Source Reference |
|-----------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------|
| Target Entity   | Theodore "Ted" Nugent (Musician, Political Activist, NRA Board Member)                                                          | [Source 4.1]     |
| Objective       | Summarize and analyze Nugent's most prominent and controversial statements regarding former President Barack Obama (2007–2016). | (N/A)            |
| Target Audience | Global Audience (General public, media, corporate stakeholders, political observers)                                            | (N/A)            |
| Classification  | UNCLASSIFIED (Based on Open-Source Intelligence)                                                                                | (N/A)            |
| Date of Report  | October 10, 2025                                                                                                                | (N/A)            |

---

1. Executive Summary

Ted Nugent, an influential hard rock musician and fervent conservative activist, made numerous highly provocative and inflammatory public statements regarding Barack Obama during his time in office. These statements primarily centered on Obama's policies (particularly gun control), and in several widely-reported instances, involved personal, derogatory, and racially charged language. The most notable consequence of this rhetoric was triggering a Secret Service investigation and causing political and business backlash, including the cancellation of concert appearances. The rhetoric consistently sought to position the Obama administration as "evil," "criminal," and a fundamental threat to American liberty.

---

2. Key Controversial Statements and Intelligence Timeline

The following timeline highlights the most cited and contentious public remarks made by

Nugent regarding Barack Obama, drawing from speeches, interviews, and social media posts:

| Date/Year                            | Statement / Context                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Public & Political Consequence                                                                                                                                               | Source(s)              |
|--------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------|
| 2008 (Pre-Election)           | Referred to then-U.S. Senator Barack Obama as a "piece of shit" and suggested he could "suck on my machine gun."                                                                                                                             | Established an early pattern of aggressive rhetoric; widely reported in the media.                                                                                           | [Source 1.1]           |
| April 2012 (NRA Speech)       | Stated he would be "dead or in jail by this time next year" if Obama was re-elected, and suggested conservatives should "ride into that battlefield and chop their heads off in November" (referring to Obama and administration officials). | Secret Service Investigation was initiated to assess the remarks as a potential threat. A scheduled U.S. Army concert at Fort Knox was subsequently canceled . | [Source 1.6, 2.7]      |
| November 2012 (Post-Election) | In a series of social media posts, referred to Obama voters as "pimps whores &amp; welfare brats" and questioned, "What subhuman varmint believes others must pay for their obesity..."                                                      | Maintained a high level of inflammatory commentary, further cementing his controversial public image.                                                                        | [Source 2.3]           |
| January 2014                  | Described President Obama in an interview as a "communist-raised, communist-educated, communist-nurtured, subhuman mongrel." He also referred to him                                                                                                | This specific remark drew widespread condemnation and led to a temporary backlash from some Republican candidates (e.g., Texas Governor Greg Abbott and Senator Ted Cruz) he | [Source 1.5, 2.1, 2.6] |

|                     |                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                             |              |
|---------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------|
|                     | as a " chimpanzee. "                                                                                                                                                        | was campaigning for, forcing a partial apology for the language but not the sentiment.               |              |
| January 2016 | Called for President Obama and former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton to be " tried for treason &amp; hung " over their alleged actions during the 2012 Benghazi attack. | A continuation of his most extreme rhetoric, using explicit calls for violence against political opponents. | [Source 1.3] |

---

3. Analysis of Impact (Global Audience)

1. Safety and Security Risk: The 2012 statements directly resulted in a Secret Service intervention [Source 1.6], indicating law enforcement agencies took his rhetoric seriously enough to investigate potential threats against the President. Any entity booking Nugent for an event would need to be aware of his history with Federal security agencies.
2. Reputational Damage and Association: Nugent's use of racially charged terms ("subhuman mongrel") [Source 1.5] and repeated calls for violence have made him an exceptionally divisive figure.
  - o Political: Mainstream Republican figures often struggled to campaign alongside him, being forced to publicly distance themselves from his language while attempting to retain his activist base [Source 1.2, 2.6].
  - o Commercial/Venue: Concert venues, particularly those owned by Native American tribes or city municipalities, have canceled his performances due to public outcry and the potential for protest and disruption, demonstrating a direct impact on his business viability [Source 2.2].

---

4. Conclusion and Resources

Ted Nugent's statements regarding Barack Obama are characterized by extremist political opposition, highly inflammatory language, and explicit references to violence. These remarks consistently generated national controversy, initiated a federal investigation, and have historically resulted in tangible business consequences. For a global audience or any associated corporate/public entity, these statements remain a primary, high-risk component of his public profile and must be factored into any decision involving his public platform or endorsement.

Resource List

- [Source 1.1] The Texas Tribune. Rocker Ted Nugent is Bearing Arms and Cranking Up Controversy. (2012)
- [Source 1.2] The Texas Tribune. The Brief: Feb. 21, 2014. (2014)
- [Source 1.3] CBS News Detroit. Ted Nugent Calls For Hillary Clinton, Obama To Be Killed Over Benghazi. (2016)
- [Source 1.5] PolitiFact. Wolf Blitzer: Ted Nugent used Nazi terminology, 'subhuman mongrel,' to describe President Barack Obama. (2014)
- [Source 1.6] FindLaw. Ted Nugent Gets Secret Service Attention Over Obama Remarks. (2019)
- [Source 2.1] Washington Monthly. Ted Nugent apologizes for his disgusting remarks about Obama.... (2014)
- [Source 2.2] Ted Nugent - Wikipedia. Political views section. (Current)
- [Source 2.3] The Guardian. Ted Nugent: 'demilitarised gun nut' to attend Obama state of the union. (2013)
- [Source 2.6] CBS News. Republicans push back against Ted Nugent's inflammatory Obama remarks. (2014)
- [Source 2.7] Globalnews.ca. Secret Service looking into Ted Nugent's violent anti-Obama rant. (2012)
- [Source 4.1] Ted Nugent - 103.3 The Eagle. Biography. (Current)