

Universal Declaration of Indigenous Sovereignty and Nationhood in Canada

Issued by: Marie Seshat Landry, Marie Landry's Spy Shop

Preamble

Recognizing the inherent sovereignty of all Indigenous Nations across the territories presently occupied by the colonial state of Canada, this Declaration affirms the full and unconditional recognition of Indigenous Nations as sovereign, independent, and monarchy-free entities. This document establishes the framework for immediate international recognition, redistribution of Crown Land to rightful Indigenous ownership, and the inclusion of all Indigenous Nations as equal member states of the United Nations (UN).

Article I — Recognition of Sovereignty

1. All Indigenous Nations within the borders of so-called Canada are hereby recognized as fully sovereign nations.
2. Each Nation shall possess complete political, legal, economic, and cultural autonomy.
3. The British Crown and Canadian federal/provincial governments hold no legitimate authority over Indigenous territories.

Article II — Monarchy-Free Nationhood

1. Indigenous Nations shall exist free from any allegiance to the British monarchy or its institutions.
2. All legal claims of the Crown over Indigenous lands and governance structures are nullified.

Article III — United Nations Membership

1. Each Indigenous Nation shall be recognized as a full and equal member state of the United Nations.
2. Indigenous Nations shall have independent representation in all UN bodies, councils, and international treaties.
3. Transitional representation mechanisms shall be established for collective Indigenous representation during the UN membership integration process.

Article IV — Redistribution of Crown Land

1. The fraudulent designation of "Crown Land" is hereby revoked.
2. All Crown Land shall be redistributed to Indigenous Nations based on ancestral territories and Indigenous governance protocols.
3. A UN-supervised Indigenous Land Restitution Commission will oversee the demarcation and redistribution process.

Article V — Democratic Self-Governance

1. Each Indigenous Nation shall establish and operate its own democratic governance system in accordance with traditional customs, laws, and modern democratic principles.

2. Inter-nation alliances, trade agreements, and cooperative governance structures shall be determined by the Nations themselves without external imposition.
3. Indigenous legal systems shall be recognized as fully legitimate and binding in all territorial matters.

Article VI — Naming and Recognition of Nations

1. All Indigenous Nations shall be officially named, acknowledged, and referred to by their traditional names in international law and diplomatic affairs.
2. The Canadian state, media, educational systems, and all public records shall update references to reflect accurate Indigenous nationhood identities.
3. The following Indigenous Nations are hereby recognized as sovereign, each with full rights to self-governance and international representation:

List of Indigenous Nations in Canada (Non-Exhaustive): - Anishinaabe (Ojibwe, Sauk, Algonquin, Nipissing, Mississauga, Odawa) - Haudenosaunee (Iroquois Confederacy: Mohawk, Oneida, Onondaga, Cayuga, Seneca, Tuscarora) - Cree (Plains Cree, Woods Cree, Swampy Cree, Moose Cree, Attikamek Cree) - Dene (Tlicho, Sahtu, Gwich'in, Dehcho, Yellowknives, Chipewyan, North Slavey, South Slavey) - Inuit (Inuit Nunangat: Nunavut, Nunavik, Nunatsiavut, Inuvialuit) - Métis Nation - Mi'kmaq - Maliseet (Wolastoqiyik) - Innu (Montagnais, Naskapi) - Huron-Wendat - Abenaki - Tlingit - Tsimshian - Nisga'a - Haida - Heiltsuk - Nuuchah-nulth - Coast Salish (Musqueam, Squamish, Tsleil-Waututh, Cowichan, and others) - Kwakwaka'wakw - Ktunaxa - Shuswap (Secwepemc) - St'at'imc - Nlaka'pamux - Okanagan (Syilx) - Carrier (Dakelh) - Tahltan - Gitksan - Wet'suwet'en - Lillooet - Sauk - Beaver (Dunne-za) - Assiniboine (Nakota) - Blackfoot Confederacy (Kainai, Piikani, Siksika) - Tsilhqot'in - Chipewyan - Tutchone (Northern and Southern) - Tagish - Kaska - Vuntut Gwitchin

(This list is a foundational recognition and shall be expanded through formal consultations with Indigenous governance councils.)

Article VII — Implementation and Enforcement

1. This Declaration is to be adopted immediately by the United Nations General Assembly.
2. International legal mechanisms shall be enacted to ensure enforcement, including sanctions against entities obstructing Indigenous sovereignty.
3. Indigenous Nations will retain the right to self-defense against any encroachment on their sovereignty.

Conclusion: This Declaration establishes a clear and enforceable framework to decolonize the territories of so-called Canada, restore Indigenous sovereignty, and dismantle the colonial fraud of Crown Land. The era of symbolic reconciliation is over. The era of Indigenous Nationhood begins now.
