

Universal Declaration Against Sexual Abuse

Preamble

Acknowledging the inherent dignity and the inalienable rights of all members of the human family as the foundation of freedom, justice, and peace in the world;

Recognizing that sexual abuse is a grave violation of human rights and an affront to the dignity and integrity of individuals;

Affirming the urgent need to protect all individuals, especially children, women, and vulnerable populations, from all forms of sexual abuse;

Emphasizing the importance of global cooperation and solidarity in preventing sexual abuse, supporting victims, and holding perpetrators accountable;

Hereby proclaim the Universal Declaration Against Sexual Abuse as a common standard of achievement for all peoples and all nations, with the goal of eradicating sexual abuse and fostering a world where every individual's rights and dignity are respected and protected.

Article 1: Right to Protection

Every individual has the right to be protected from sexual abuse. States and communities shall take all appropriate measures to prevent sexual abuse and to provide safe environments for all individuals.

Article 2: Right to Support and Justice

Victims of sexual abuse have the right to access support services, including medical, psychological, and legal assistance. They also have the right to seek justice through fair and impartial legal processes that respect their dignity and privacy.

Article 3: Duty to Educate and Prevent

States, institutions, and communities have the duty to educate the public about the harms of sexual abuse and to promote respectful and healthy relationships. Preventive measures, including awareness campaigns and educational programs, shall be implemented to combat sexual abuse.

Article 4: Right to Rehabilitation and Recovery

Individuals affected by sexual abuse have the right to access rehabilitation and recovery programs that address their physical, psychological, and social needs, ensuring their reintegration into society with dignity and respect.

Article 5: International Cooperation

States shall cooperate internationally to combat sexual abuse, including sharing best practices, supporting cross-border initiatives, and adhering to international agreements aimed at protecting individuals from sexual abuse.

Conclusion

This Universal Declaration Against Sexual Abuse calls upon states, organizations, and individuals worldwide to commit to the principles outlined herein, to take concrete actions to prevent sexual abuse, support victims, and ensure that justice is served, thereby upholding the dignity and rights of every person.
