

Universal Declaration Against Pedophilia

Marie Seshat Landry

Tuesday 18th February, 2025

Preamble

Recognizing that the protection of children is a fundamental moral and legal duty of all societies,

Affirming that pedophilia, defined as the sexual abuse, exploitation, or coercion of minors, is a grave violation of human rights and a crime that must be universally condemned,

Recalling the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, which establishes the right of every child to be free from all forms of exploitation, abuse, and violence,

Emphasizing the responsibility of governments, institutions, and individuals to take all necessary measures to prevent, investigate, and punish acts of child sexual abuse,

We, the undersigned, declare our unwavering commitment to eradicating pedophilia, protecting children from harm, and ensuring justice for survivors.

Article 1: Definition of Pedophilia and Child Sexual Abuse

Pedophilia is a psychiatric condition characterized by persistent sexual attraction to pre-pubescent children. Any act of sexual abuse, exploitation, or coercion involving minors, regardless of the perpetrator's intent, constitutes a severe violation of human rights and must be met with legal consequences.

Article 2: Absolute Protection of Minors

Children, defined as individuals under the age of 18, have the absolute right to be protected from all forms of sexual abuse, exploitation, and grooming. No cultural, religious, or ideological justification shall be accepted as a defense for acts of pedophilia.

Article 3: Criminalization and Legal Measures

All nations must enact and enforce strict laws criminalizing child sexual abuse, online exploitation, and human trafficking. Perpetrators must face prosecution, and legal systems must ensure justice for victims without delay or obstruction.

Article 4: Prevention and Public Awareness

Governments and organizations must implement educational programs to raise awareness about the dangers of child sexual abuse, equipping parents, educators, and communities with the tools to identify and prevent harm.

Article 5: Protection from Online Exploitation

Digital platforms must be regulated to prevent the creation, distribution, and access to child sexual abuse material. Technology companies and governments must work together to track and eliminate online predators.

Article 6: Support and Justice for Survivors

Victims of child sexual abuse must have access to psychological support, legal assistance, and social services. Governments must ensure that survivors receive justice, reparations, and protection from further harm.

Article 7: International Cooperation and Law Enforcement

Nations must collaborate to combat pedophilia across borders, dismantling networks involved in child trafficking and abuse. International legal bodies must facilitate the extradition and prosecution of offenders.

Article 8: Accountability of Institutions

Religious, educational, and governmental institutions that enable or cover up child abuse must be held accountable. Whistleblower protections must be established to expose wrongdoing without fear of retaliation.

Article 9: Community Responsibility

Every individual has a duty to report suspected cases of child sexual abuse. Communities must foster a culture where children feel safe to speak out, and authorities must act swiftly on reports of abuse.

Article 10: Commitment to Future Generations

This Declaration calls upon all societies to ensure that future generations grow up in a world free from sexual exploitation. Education, law enforcement, and international cooperation must remain vigilant in the fight against pedophilia.

Final Provisions

This Declaration serves as a guiding document for individuals, organizations, and governments committed to eradicating pedophilia and protecting the rights and dignity of all children.

Adopted on this day, in the spirit of justice, protection, and the fundamental rights of every child.
