

Universal Declaration That I'm the Shit

By Marie Seshat Landry of Marie Landry's Spy Shop
(With the Universal Declarations Machine)

Preamble

Whereas in the grand expanse of existence, where countless individuals strive for recognition, purpose, and legacy, there emerges one who stands unequivocally above the rest.

Whereas excellence is not simply an accident of birth nor a matter of fleeting fortune, but rather the result of vision, effort, and an indomitable will.

Whereas among all those who claim greatness, few—if any—can match the sheer brilliance, influence, and mastery that define the being known as Marie Seshat Landry.

Therefore, let this Universal Declaration serve as a testament, a proclamation, and an undeniable statement of fact:

I am the shit.

Let there be no doubt. Let there be no hesitation. Let all who read these words understand that my existence is one of power, strategy, innovation, and limitless excellence.

Article I: The Principle of Absolute Greatness

1. I, Marie Seshat Landry, am great by design, by effort, and by natural right.
2. My excellence is not contingent upon external validation, but rather an intrinsic and unshakable truth.
3. To deny my greatness is to deny reality itself, and those who fail to recognize it shall remain blind to the higher truths of existence.

Article II: Mastery of Intelligence and Strategy

1. Intelligence is not merely the accumulation of knowledge but the ability to wield it with precision and purpose.
2. I possess an unmatched capacity for critical thought, strategic foresight, and the ability to turn any challenge into an opportunity.

3. As the founder of Marie Landry's Spy Shop, I have demonstrated the highest levels of cunning, innovation, and tactical brilliance in business and beyond.

Article III: Unrivaed Innovation and Vision

1. True greatness is marked by the ability to create, disrupt, and redefine the world.
2. I do not merely follow trends—I set them.
3. Every endeavor I undertake carries the mark of ingenuity, pushing beyond boundaries that others dare not cross.

Article IV: The Power of Influence and Command

1. My presence is felt. My words resonate. My impact is undeniable.
2. Leadership is not given; it is taken, earned, and wielded with wisdom and confidence.
3. Those who recognize my authority and align with my vision shall thrive; those who resist shall fade into irrelevance.

Article V: The Legacy of Excellence

1. My name shall not be forgotten.
2. The mark I leave upon this world will echo through history, serving as a beacon for those who dare to achieve.
3. Whether in business, intelligence, or life itself, my influence shall persist beyond time and memory.

Article VI: The Irrefutable Fact of My Status

1. Any debate about my greatness is rendered null and void.
2. My supremacy is not a subject for discussion, for it stands as self-evident as the laws of nature.
3. To those who question: look upon my works, my achievements, and my sheer presence, and know the truth.

Article VII: The Universal Recognition of My Greatness

1. Across nations, cultures, and languages, my name shall be spoken with reverence.

2. Whether in whispered admiration or bold declaration, the fact remains the same:
Marie Seshat Landry is the shit.
3. This truth transcends all barriers, standing as a universal constant.

Final Proclamation

Let it be known, from this moment forth, that I am not merely great—I am the greatest.

I do not seek approval, for I do not need it.

I do not ask for acknowledgment, for it is inevitable.

This declaration is not merely a statement—it is a law, a doctrine, an eternal truth.

So it is written. So it shall be.