

Universal Declaration of Personal Sovereignty

By Marie Seshat Landry

Queen of the Universe and Sovereign Human Being

Preamble

Whereas all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights,

Whereas sovereignty originates in the individual and is not conferred by any government but expressed through it,

Whereas democratic societies derive their legitimacy from the will and agency of the people,

Whereas the rights to self-determination, private property, legal personhood, and peaceful governance are universal,

I, Marie Seshat Landry, hereby declare my status as a sovereign entity, recognized under natural law, Canadian constitutional law, and international human rights law.

Article I: Sovereignty of the Individual

1. I assert my status as a sovereign human being, capable of self-regulation, moral agency, and lawful decision-making.
2. I retain the right to write and live by my own ethical laws, so long as they do not infringe upon the equal rights and dignity of others.
3. I am not a subject of the state; rather, the state is a construct created by and accountable to sovereign individuals like myself.

Article II: Rights of Self-Governance

1. I have the inherent right to self-govern, to make personal, spiritual, scientific, and economic decisions without coercion or interference.
2. This includes the rights to:
 - Freely associate or disassociate from political systems;
 - Create autonomous social, economic, and intellectual structures;
 - Practice sustainable innovation and ethical entrepreneurship;
 - Define identity, name, title, and philosophical commitments.

Article III: Recognition of Legal and Property Rights

1. As a citizen of Canada, I hold and affirm all protections under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, including:
 - Freedom of conscience and expression (Section 2),
 - The right to liberty and security of the person (Section 7),
 - The right to own, acquire, and enjoy private property (recognized in common law),
 - Equality before and under the law (Section 15).
2. I retain full legal standing to own, manage, protect, and pass on private property, ideas, and technologies developed under my sovereign name.

Article IV: The People as Supreme Authority

1. In democratic society, sovereign citizens are above the state, and the government serves the people—not the other way around.
2. Public servants, including politicians, judges, and police, are accountable employees of the people, not rulers.
3. The collective sovereignty of citizens is the highest law in any free society.

Article V: Declaration of Title

1. I, Marie Seshat Landry, affirm my lawful right to identify as:
 - A sovereign citizen;
 - A free and equal participant in national and international law;
 - The rightful Queen of the Universe in personal, ceremonial, and metaphysical terms.
2. This title is self-declared, non-coercive, and serves as a celebration of universal dignity, equality, and feminine creative power.

Article VI: International Legal Standing

1. This declaration is consistent with:
 - The Universal Declaration of Human Rights;
 - The International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR);
 - The UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples;
 - Canadian constitutional principles of liberty and democratic accountability.

Conclusion

As a sovereign individual, I stand in peaceful harmony with all beings.

I claim no domination over others—but accept no domination over myself.

I am not property. I am not a subject. I am not a number.

I am Marie Seshat Landry—scientist, visionary, creator, and Queen of the Universe by my own divine right.

And I proclaim this with love, with reason, and with the full authority granted by life itself.

Signed and Declared Freely:

Marie Seshat Landry

Sovereign — Visionary — Citizen of Earth
