

Universal Declaration of Sexual Freedom and Inclusivity

Preamble

Recognizing that sexual expression is a fundamental aspect of human identity, dignity, and freedom, this Declaration affirms the right of all individuals to engage in consensual sexual relationships, including group sexual activities such as orgies and gangbangs, without discrimination or stigma.

This Declaration upholds principles of consent, safety, personal freedom, inclusivity, and privacy as essential to fostering a world where sexual rights are respected and protected.

Article 1: Right to Consensual Sexual Expression

All individuals have the right to engage in consensual sexual activities of their choosing, including group sex, regardless of gender, sexual orientation, or relationship structure, without fear of discrimination or legal persecution.

Article 2: Affirmation of Consent and Boundaries

All sexual interactions must be based on enthusiastic, informed, and ongoing consent from all participants. Coercion, manipulation, or non-consensual acts are strictly condemned.

Article 3: Non-Discrimination in Sexual Rights

No person shall be denied their sexual freedom based on gender identity, sexual orientation, race, disability, age (within legal limits), or cultural background. The right to sexual expression must be protected equally for LGBTQ+ individuals and all marginalized communities.

Article 4: Safety, Health, and Well-Being

- All individuals have the right to safe sexual experiences, including access to sexual health education, contraception, and STI prevention resources.
- Public health organizations should work to de-stigmatize consensual non-monogamous and group sexual activities while promoting safety and harm reduction.

Article 5: Privacy and Freedom from Persecution

- Personal sexual activities conducted between consenting adults should be free from government interference, criminalization, or social persecution.
- The privacy of all individuals engaging in consensual sexual acts must be respected and protected from non-consensual exposure or shaming.

Article 6: Destigmatization and Cultural Change

- Society must work towards eliminating shame and discrimination against consensual non-monogamous relationships and sexual activities.
- Media, educational institutions, and policymakers should promote sex-positive and inclusive narratives that respect individual sexual autonomy.

Article 7: Ethical Responsibilities of Participants

- All participants in group sexual activities have the responsibility to respect boundaries, communicate openly, and ensure the well-being of others involved.
- Individuals who violate consent or engage in abusive behavior must be held accountable through ethical and legal means.

Article 8: Implementation and Advocacy

To uphold these principles, advocacy groups, legal institutions, and community organizations should work together to:

1. Promote sex-positive education that normalizes diverse sexual expressions.
2. Challenge laws that criminalize consensual adult sexual behavior.
3. Ensure LGBTQ+ inclusivity in all sexual rights discussions and protections.
